Note-taking

The Why

The purpose of this issue is to highlight note-taking resources, varied formats, and student exemplars across content areas.

Math

Algebra: Guided Notes w/Reflection

This worksheet is titled "Linear System of Equations" and includes a "Name" field. It contains several sections: "What is a System?", "Linear System of Equations" with a graph showing two intersecting lines, "Types of Solutions" with three graphs illustrating different intersection scenarios (one point, no points, infinite points), and a "SUMMARIZE AND REFLECT" section with three numbered prompts: 1. Point of Confusion/Confidence, 2. Questions you still have, and 3. Things you learned from today's lesson.

Science

Biology Honors: Cornell Notes

This image shows three pages of student-written Cornell notes on biology topics. The first page is titled "Photosynthesis" and "Cellular Respiration", detailing the chemical equations and processes. The second page is titled "DNA" and "What is a DNA?", explaining its structure and function. The third page continues with "DNA" and "DNA Replication", including diagrams of DNA molecules and their replication.

World History/Geog: One-Pagers

This image displays two student-created one-pagers. The first is titled "CLASSICAL GREECE" and "DEMOCRACY", featuring a central drawing of a classical building and text about Athenian democracy, including names like Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle. The second is titled "SPARTAN" and "CITY-STATES", featuring a central drawing of a Spartan warrior and text about Sparta's military and political structure.

English 9: Graphic Organizer

This graphic organizer is titled "Literary Analysis Brainstorming". It includes an "Assertion" box with the text: "Elie Weisel has changed by losing his religious faith and will to stay humane." Below this are three evidence boxes, each with a "Commentary" box. Evidence 1 discusses Elie's loss of faith, Evidence 2 discusses the impact of death camps, and Evidence 3 discusses Elie's personal growth and realization.
